I. Introduction

This Notice of Privacy Practices describes how we may use and disclose your (or your child's/children's) protected health information to carry out treatment, payment, or health care operations and for other purposes that are permitted or required by law. This Notice also describes your rights regarding health information we maintain about you (or your child/children) and a brief description of how you may exercise these rights. This Notice states the obligations we have to protect your health (or your child's/children's) information. "Protected health information" means health information, including identifying information about you (or your child/children); we have received from you or from other health care providers, health plans, employers, Department of Social and Health Services, Department of Child and Family Services, or health care clearinghouses. It can include information about your (or your child's/children's) past, present, or future physical or mental health condition(s), the treatment plan for your (or your child's/children's) condition, and methods of payment for health care services. We are required by law to maintain the privacy of your (or your child's/children's) health information and to provide you with this notice of our legal duty(ies) and privacy practices with respect to your (or your child's/children's) health information. We are also required to comply with the terms of our current Notice of Privacy Practices.

II. Use and Disclosure of Health Information

We will use and disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information as described in each category listed below. Each category will explain what is meant in general, but not describe all specific uses or disclosures of health information. You as the patient have the right to request that Palouse River Counseling restrict the release of your (or your child/children's) personal healthcare information for the use of treatment, payment, or health care operations. However, Palouse River Counseling is not required to agree to a request for the restriction, PRC has a policy by which they will accept or deny such request(s).

A. Uses and Disclosures that may be made with your written consent

1. For Treatment. Once you have signed our Consent to Use and Disclose Health Information, we will use and disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information to provide health care and any related services. We will also use and disclose health information to coordinate and manage your health care and related services. For example, we may need to disclose information to a case manager who is responsible for coordinating care outside of this agency. We may also disclose your health information among our clinicians and other staff. This may include clinicians, Medical Doctor, Nurse Practitioner, other than your (or your child's/children's) principal clinician, who work at Palouse River Counseling.

2. For Payment. Once you have signed the Consent to Use and Disclose Health Information, we may use or disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information so that the treatment and services received are billed to, and payment is collected from, a health plan or other third party payer. For example, we may disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information to permit your health plan to take certain actions before your health plan approves or pays for your services. These actions may include:

- Making determination of eligibility or coverage for health insurance;
- Reviewing your services to determine if they were medically necessary;

- Reviewing your services to determine if they were appropriately authorized or certified in advance of your care; or
- Reviewing your services for purposes of utilization review, to ensure the appropriateness of your care, or to justify the charges of your care.

Additionally, your health plan may ask us to share your (or your child's/children's) health information in order to determine if the plan will approve additional visits to your therapist. However, if you choose not to use your insurance for your (or child/children's) services, we will not send information to your insurance company.

3. For Health Care Operations. Once you have signed our Consent to Use and Disclose Health Information, we may use and disclose health information about you (or your child/children) for our operations. These uses and disclosures are necessary to run our organization and make sure that our clients receive quality care. These activities may include, for example, quality assessment and improvement, reviewing the performance or qualifications of our clinicians, training students in clinical activities, licensing, accreditation, business planning and development, and general administrative activities.

Palouse River Counseling may combine the health information of several of our clients to decide what additional services we should offer, what services are no longer being used, and whether certain new treatments are effective. We may also combine health care information with information received from other providers to compare how we are doing and see where we can make improvements in our services. When we combine our health information with the information from other providers, we will remove any identifying information so others may use it to study health care or health care delivery without identifying specific clients.

We may also use and disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information to contact you to remind you of your appointment.

Finally, we may use and disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information to inform you about possible treatment options and alternatives that may be of interest to you.

B. Uses and Disclosures that may be made without Your Consent or Authorization, but for which you will have an opportunity to object.

1. Person(s) Involved in your care. We may provide health information about you (or your child/children) to someone who helps pay for your care. We may use or disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information to notify or assist in notifying family members, personal representatives, or any other person(s) that is (are) responsible for your (or your child's/children's) care of your (or your child's/children's) location, general condition, or death. Palouse River Counseling may also use or disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information to any agency assisting in disaster relief efforts or to coordinate uses and disclosures for this purpose to family or other individuals involved in your (or your child's/children's) health care.

In certain circumstances, we may disclose health information about you (or your child/children) to a friend or family member who is directly involved in your (or your child's/children's) care. If you're physically present and have the capacity to make health care decisions, your (or your child's/children's) health information may only be disclosed with your agreement to the person(s) you designate to be involved in your (or your child's/children's) care.

However, if you (or your child/children) are involved in an emergency situation, Palouse River Counseling may disclose your (or your child's/children's) health information to a spouse, parent (including a non-custodial parent), or a friend so that such person may assist in your care. In each individual case we will determine whether the disclosure is in your (or your child's/children's) best interest and, if so, we will only disclose information that is directly relevant to participation in your (or your child's/children's) care. And, if you are not in an emergency situation, but are unable to make health care decisions, we will disclose your health information to:

- A person(s) designated to participate in your care in accordance with an advance directive validly executed under state law.

- Your (or your child's/children's) guardian or other fiduciary if one has been appointed by a court, or

Such a release can be made to a person(s) who is reasonably able to lessen and/or prevent this threat. In the case of a minor who has reached the age of 13 and can enter into or leave treatment without parental consent, the parents are not treated as the minor's personal representative. However, if PRC believes in good faith that the teen presents a danger to themselves and/or others, than PRC can release information to the parent (including a non-custodial parent) or guardian or to other person(s) who can assist in lessening and/or preventing the threat.

If an individual has been given a health care power of attorney they have the right to access your (or your child's/children's) medical records. However, if Palouse River Counseling reasonably believes that you (or your child/children) has been or may be a victim of domestic violence, abuse, or neglect by the client's personal representative, or that treating a person as a client's personal representative could endanger you (or your child/children), than PRC can choose not to treat that person as your (or your child/children's) personal representative.

If an individual is the personal representative of an adult or an emancipated minor, the individual has access to the client's protected health information. However, the scope of the access is dependent on the authority granted to the personal representative. If the personal representative is authorized the make health care decisions, then he or she may have access to yours (or your child/children's) protected health information regarding general health care. However, if the authority is limited, than the personal representative can only have access to the personal health information that is relevant to their decision making within his/her authority.

test to react as positive. The test may also be falsely negative if your immune system is not working properly.

A negative QFT usually means you are not infected.

What if the test is positive?

A positive skin test or QFT usually means that you have been infected with the TB germ. It does not necessarily mean that you have TB disease. Other tests, such as an x-ray or sputum sample, are needed to see if you have TB disease.

What if I had the BCG vaccine?

BCG is a vaccine for TB. This vaccine is not widely used in the United States, but it is often given to infants and small children in other countries where TB is common. The BCG vaccine does not usually protect adults against TB. You may still get TB infection or TB disease. Even if you have had the BCG vaccine, you will need a TB skin test or QFT to see if you may have TB infection or TB disease.

What should I do if I have TB infection or TB disease?

Get the required follow-up tests. Follow your doctor's advice and take the medicine as prescribed. Today, both TB infection and TB disease can be treated and cured with medication.

For more information on TB or to get a TB skin test, call your doctor or local health department.

Tuberculosis: Get the Facts!

What is tuberculosis?

Tuberculosis (TB) is a disease that usually affects the lungs. TB sometimes affects other parts of the body, such as the brain, the kidneys, or the spine. TB disease can cause death if untreated.

How is TB spread?

TB germs are spread from person to person through the air. TB germs are put into the air when a person with TB disease of the lungs or throat coughs, sneezes, laughs, or sings. TB is NOT spread by sharing silverware or cups, or sharing saliva when kissing someone.

What are the symptoms of TB?

People with TB disease often feel weak or sick, lose weight, have fever, and have night sweats. If their TB disease is in the lungs, they may also cough and have chest pain, and they might cough up blood. Other symptoms depend on what part of the body is affected.

What is the difference between TB disease and TB infection?

People with TB disease are sick from the large number of TB germs that are active in their body. They usually have one or more of the symptoms of TB disease. These people may pass the TB germs to others. TB disease can cause permanent body damage and death. Medicines which can cure TB disease are given to these people.

People with TB infection also have the germs that cause TB in their body. But they are not sick because there are not as many of the germs, and the germs lie dormant (sleeping) in their body. They cannot spread the germs to others. However, these people could develop TB disease in the future, especially if they are in one of the high-risk groups listed under "Who gets TB disease?" People with TB infection can take medicine to prevent them from developing TB disease.

Who gets TB disease?

Once a person has TB infection, he or she has a higher chance of getting TB disease if the person

- Has HIV infection
- Has been recently infected with TB germs (in the last 2 years)
- Has other health problems, like diabetes, that make it hard for the body to fight germs
- Uses alcohol or injects illegal drugs
- Was not treated correctly for TB infection in the past

How can I tell if I have TB?

Get a TB skin test or the QuantiFERON®-TB Gold (QFT) blood test. If you have a positive reaction to either of the tests, you will probably be given other tests to see if you have TB infection or TB disease.

Where can I get a TB skin test or QFT?

You can get a TB skin test from your doctor or local health department. You may be able to get the QFT at your local health department.

How are the TB tests given?

For a TB skin test, a health care worker uses a small needle to put some testing material, called tuberculin, just under your skin. This is usually done on the lower inside part of your arm. After you get the test, you must return in 2 to 3 days to see if there is a reaction to the test. If there is a reaction, the size of the reaction is measured.

If your health department does offer the QFT, some of your blood is taken for the test. You will be instructed on how to get the results of your test.

What if the test is negative?

A negative skin test usually means you are not infected. However, the test may be falsely negative if you were infected recently. It usually takes 2 to 10 weeks after exposure to a person with TB disease for your skin
